COOKING BREAKFAST BACON. How to Do It in Different Ways and

Do It Right. The secret of cooking breakfast bacon so it will be a "delicate light-brown, dry and crisp," consists first, in cutting it thin, then in having it ice-cold when it is put in the pan, which must be hot, yet not red-hot. Shake the pan rapidly while the bacon is cooking; toss the bacon over. It will crisp into rolls in two or three minutes and will then be ready to use as a garnish. The pan should be hot enough to burn the bacon unless it is kept moving. The bacon should be so chilled that it is firm enough for a keen-edged knife to cut it in waferlike slices. Some cooks prefer to broil bacon. Then simply lay the slices in an oyster broiler and broil them for two minutes on each side, turning them and lifting them if the fat drips. It is also especially necessary to have the dampers of the stove open, as it always is necessary in broiling anything. The smoke of dripping fat is thus drawn away from the meat.

Careful cooks bone their bacon. They keep the "side" wrapped in cloth and hang it up in the cellar, or some cold place, where they can cut slices from it as they need it.

Slices of bacon are served with veal cutlets, calf's liver, chicken liver and many meats. Chicken livers rolled in oil or melted butter, seasoned with salt and pepper and then rolled in fine breadcrumbs make a delicious supper or breakfast dish when garnished with bacon. Broil them for five minutes after flattening them a little. Spread half a teaspoonful of maitre d-hotel butter on each liver after it is cooked, garnished with a crisp slice of bacon.

Chicken livers can be procured by the dozen in the largest markets.

Broiled squab, quail, grouse, woodcock and other birds are properly sliced with a garnish of bacon. Almost any fried fish is appropriately served with this garnish. Dainty little crisped rolls of bacon are a most excellent accompaniment to a dish of perfectly fried golden-brown fishballs. Fishballs, properly cooked and seasoned, is not a dish for an epicure to sneer at. It may well tice of the Peace, in and for said county in hold its own place as an American dish when the American housewife may well be proud of when it is properly served; but as it is frequently put on the table it deserves all the contempt implied in the term "codfish aristocracy."

Not every housekeeper knows the delicious salad which may be made of bacon cut in dice-shaped pieces, fried brown and used with dandelion or chickory leaves. Prepare a quart of bleached leaves. After washing, rinsing and draining them thoroughly, put them in a salad bowl. Take two thin slices of bacon and cut them into small dice. Put them in a hot frying-pan and toss them until they are well cooked and a rich brown. Drain them from the fat that has fried out. Lay them for an instant on coarse brown paper to absorb the fat. Toss them with the salad leaves, which must be properly seasoned with salt and pepper, and finally add two tablespoonfuls of sharp vinegar. Toss the salad well and serve it. No game cook can consider herself an expert unless she knows how to crisp properly the garnish of bacon, which is so necessary an accompaniment of a broiled bird .- N. Y. Tribune.

My physician became uneasy, and after attending upon me for a week or so, he brought me a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, saying that he believed they would do me more good than anything which he knew of, as he had used them with great success in a case very similar to mine where all other remedies had failed. Justice of the Peace. The New Era was also informed that Mrs. Charles Williams, of the same neighborhood, had been cured of rheumatism, and Henry Johnson, of Hartsville, who was troubled with neuralgia, was also cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It seems that this remedy is in great demand in that neighborhood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. These pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N.
